BURGLARY .- The Book Store on Church Street, recently occupied by Rollin Bradley, but which has been closed for several days, was broken into, through a window in the rear, Monday night, and the drawers and show cases rifled of Gold Peas, Cutlery and other articles of value, to the amount of from two hundred to four hundred dollars.

THE ROBBERY ON CHURCH STREET. - THE BURGLARS ARRESTED. - Suspicion pointed Tuesday to a young man name! Gustavus Bancroft, who keeps a little grocery opposite the Post Office, as the person who broke open Bradley's Store the other night. Next day his premises were searched, and most of the stolen property was found in a bag, buried under his cellar floor. Some was found hid in the wood pile, and some was exposed for sale in his shop. He was arrested and confessed to the robbery, implicating another young fellow, Harvey Aubery, as his accomplice, who was also arrested.

Aubery acknowledges that he entered the store first on Sunday, and took some things, and with Bancroft went again Monday not contemplate landing troops in that of the Courier and Enquirer writes : In the smothered contest so long in progress between the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Cobb has recently gained a very unexpected but decided advantage. He has secured the support of the Washington Union. This is the first time that such a thing has occurred in our history. The ar-ticles of the Union on the tariff are sent down from the Treasury, and are written or revised by the Secretary. They condemn in strong terms the doctrines of the Message on the protection of iron, and the substitution of specific for ad ralorem duties. A recent article applies peculiarly strong terms of censure to these opinions, and, without naming Mr. Buchanan, clearly reads the President out of the party as heretical and schismatic. The Washington States also condemns the Message and deprives Mr. Buchanan of membership with the Democracy. Mr. Cobb has also been successful against the President in Congress. He has had the address to secure majority of the Committee of Ways and feans favorable to free trade, so as to defeat the President's recommendations.

The Committee has resolved that it wil not consider any question of general legisla-tion until the appropriation bills are report-This determination is probably fatal to any revision of the Tariff, further than is re quired by Mr. Cobb's suggested return to he decimal divisions.

We regard the opposition between Buchanan and Cobb a mere trick-Pennsylvania to be appeased by Buchanan's talk and the blow he must have so held it when he struck South by Cobb's action.

ARABIAN DAYS' ENTERTAINMENTS. Trans ated from the German, by HERBERT PELHAN CURTIS. Boston, PHILLIPS, SAMPSON & Co. though some of the stories have appeared separately in magazines in this country. The title will at once remind the readers of the famous "Arabian Nights" and the Princess Scheherazade. There are three series of every particular. Montgomery's face was the tales, one, those of stories told by members of a caravan to while away the tedium of their march; another of those told by the Slaves of Ali Banu, Sheik of Alexandria, in a strife for the gift of freedom, to be the boon of the best story teller; and a third by the sojourners at a tavern in Spessart. No one can reasonably look in these stories for the wealth of oriental life and adventure which is to be found in the thousand and one stories of the Arabian Nights' entertainments.

Nevertheless they will be found very readable

Poor and Proud, or the fortunes of Kate Redburn. By Oliver Optic, author of the "Boat Club" and sundry other stories for the young. Same publishers.

A lively story, but one which makes a little too much of the "Proud" part of it to be altogether natural. Just as strange things occur in real life as are here pourtrayed in fiction, although the author acknowledges that a charge of being a little extravagant, he could not altogether resent.

THE MUSTER, or LOVE and LIBERTY, by B F. PRESBURY. Boston, SHEPARD, CLARK &

The interesting portion of this work is its narrative, especially that part of it which concerns the mustee slave wife and mother, if wife she can be called, who has not the legal position which freedom and lawful marriage alone can give. Deserted at last by the selfish and unprincipled father, who, after his return to New York, sends orders to a slavebroker to sell his own child and its mother, the latter in her despair and destitution makes her escape with her little boy from her home, only to be hunted by the blood hounds of the slave dealer who had bought her. But she is rescued by a friendly Captain of a vessel and brought to the vicinity of New York where she is tracked out by r and father as U.S. Commissioner, is about to deliver up his own child and its moa land which allows of no slave on its soil The escape from the slave dealer and the chase are exciting. The sentimental portion of the work and the political cale by Huntington.

ENGLISH'S ASSAULT ON MONT-GOMERY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. The account of the affray between Messrs. Montgomery and English, given by the Washington Star, and telegraphed to the papers on Saturday, is pronounced by Montgomery as incorrect and one-sided. His statement, as given shortly after the occurrence, is as follows:

I have not spoken to English this season nor taken any notice of him when we met, as we have occasionally. The reason is that her made a speech to the crowd who screnaded him on the night of the passage of his Bill, in which he said that he had associated with me and other Anti-Lecompton Democrats only to find out our plans and defeat us .--

From that time I have looked on him as a treacherous spy, and unfit associate for gentlemen. About noon to-day I was walking down Pennsylvania Avenue and had crossed 14th street, when I saw English coming to wards me, holding out his hand, saying, "How do you do, Mr. Montgomery ?" made no answer, but passed on, without any sign of recognition. I had walked but n few steps when I received from behind a very violent blow on the left side of my head with such force as for a moment to stagger and confuse me. I had not the least idea who or what had struck me, but turning round I saw English with a large cane which he held in both hands, and from the position in which he stood and the direction of the me, He exclaimed "God damn you, I'l teach you to insult me in this way." stepped back quickly as he spoke. I rushed at him, and as I was about to close with him he drew a sword from the cane and presented it at me. As I had no weapon of any kind, I stepped off the side walk and picked This is said by the translator to be the up a brick which I threw at him, bitting only complete and perfect translation of this him on the leg. SPECIAL NOTICES HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT & PILLS

Be on your Guard .- To preclude the possibility of deception, it is well to examine the books of directions used as envelopes to the medicines. If upon every leaf the words, "Hol-loway, New York and London," appear as a water-mark, the preparation is genuine; but no therwise. Vast benefit is derived from the use of the Ointment in asthma, bronchitis, quinsy, tight ness of the chest, and pleurisy. The part affected should be fomented with flannels dipped in warm water and the Ointment rubbed briskly in. We have seen immediate and lasting relief afforded n this way. The Pills are powerful auxiliaries in reducing the febrile symptoms. dawlw rare bargains in uncommon goods bargains for those who are so fortunate as secure them.

Annoying bargains for those who notice to obtain them, and ugly bargains for competitors to encounter.

For the last (of course,) we are very sorry, though we know of no other way to remedy the matter
but to dispose of the goods as soon as possible;
Therefore our Patrons in particular and the Public generally are invited to call seen. Remember,
"delays are dangerous."
